Film: TRANSITION FRIDAY! - Film: “FOOD FIGHT” -THE REVOLUTION NEVER TASTED SO GOOD!

(91 MIN, Chris Taylor, 2008) ...With Councilmember Richard Conlin, Ron Harris-White from Seattle Parks, Leika Suzumura from the PCC, Michael Seliga from Cascade Edible Harvest, Leo Brodie from Transition Seattle and Cathy Tuttle from Sustainable Wallingford

“Chefs are social reformers in America right now” - Michael Pollen. We can all share in this revolution. We have power through our food choices to put the culture back in American agriculture. We get three votes a day, and they don't all have to be perfect. There is a great lie being sold to the American food consumer about the abundance and quality of food we have to choose from. Our food system has been co-opted by corporate forces whose interests lie outside of public health and food sustainability. This is the story of how a vital local-sustainable-organic food movement has created a counter-revolution to bring back nutrition, taste and variety to our tables. Please join us for a facilitated discussion following the film.

FRIDAY NOVEMBER 19, 2010, 7-9:30 PM

Film: “WORKERS REPUBLIC” (60 min, Andrew Friend, 2010)

WORKERS' REPUBLIC chronicles one of the most important labor victories in recent memory.

Three weeks before Christmas 2008, in the depths of the economic crisis, Chicago company Republic Windows and Doors announced the factory's closure, with no pay for the workers', no severance and no insurance. The response of these ordinary people harkened back to the sit-down strikes of the 1930s and reminded the working class it possesses a power long forgotten. This is the story of how they occupied the factory, declaring they would not leave until they were given what their employer owed them, making headlines all over the world. A testimony to courage, the creativity, and the solidarity to stand up for one's rights.

(Event is FREE and open to the public! ...but Donations are kindly accepted).
